Short Description: A mini-book to offer help to those affected by trauma that may arise from deployment and warfare

For some veterans, the stress from combat becomes so overwhelming that it debilitates them. Relationships are affected, additions begin, sleepless nights are frequent, and thoughts of suicide may seem attractive. You may ask, "Where is God in all of this?" These responses are common and you are right to think that things aren't the way they should be. This mini-book offers you hope and practical help to lead you on a journey of restoration from the darkness of combat into the light of life.

Reading Audience

- Military personnel
- Family members of military personnel
- Chaplains and ministry groups
- Church members of deployed military personnel

Features and Benefits

- Highly relevant topic today
- Easy to read and apply
- May be used with confidence to bring the gospel message clearly
- Good for use in small groups or one-to-one counseling situations
- Endorsed by key counseling organizations

Author Barrett Craig, a former US Marine, currently serves as a Navy chaplain. He holds a ThM in Biblical Counseling from The Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, is an ACBC certified counselor, and a member of ETS. He and his wife, Colleen, have one daughter.
